

FOURSIGHT

2013 Paraboll Pinot Noir

As a fourth-generation Boonville family, words and phrases of Boontling — our local language widely spoken from 1880-1920 — are still used in our households. “Para” is an art term for a deep, cherry-red color and “Boll” or “Bahl” means of excellent quality in Boontling. Put together, this Pinot Noir is a “great red,” sourced from our estate grapes in the heart of Boontling country.

Our Paraboll was crafted with the same care and personal attention as our other Pinots, but employing a different ripening schedule and barrel regimen. We make this wine in homage to the Londer family, where it originates (and with whom our winemaker, Joe Webb, worked for seven years) and to a language that may soon disappear from our history unless we strive to use it and to remember.

This wine was given additional hang time before harvest for a darker fruit profile, then aged in 50% new French oak for 11 months with heavy and medium-plus toast barrels.
